

ABSTRACT

Provided herein are methods and systems for preparing signs and displays. The methods and systems include using a light engine for generating light of a plurality of colors to illuminate the body of a flexible conduit that receives light from the light s engine. The conduit can be used as a sign, display, or similar lighting facility in many applications that traditionally used neon signs and displays.